

Research Study: The Lived Experience of Asian Migrant Mothers of Children with Disability in Australia

Are you the mother of a child (0-18 years old) with a disability?

Did you migrate to Australia from a Southeast or East Asian country?

Researchers from The University of Sydney need your help to better understand the daily lives of mothers who migrated to Australia from Southeast or East Asia and have a child with disability.

We invite you to complete an anonymous survey. You will be asked about your time use and the things you do every day. This will take approximately 15 minutes, depending on how much you want to tell us.

The survey is available in English, 中文, 한국어, ภาษาไทย, Bahasa Indonesia, Bahasa Melayu, Tiếng Việt, Filipino, မြန်မာဘာသာ, and Português.

For more information and to access the survey

please click the following link or scan the QR code:

<https://redcap.sydney.edu.au/surveys/?s=CJ77T3X9DMP78RYM>

If you have any questions or would like further information, please contact Xinyi Yu at xiyu0596@uni.sydney.edu.au.

This study has been approved by the Human Research Ethics Committee (HREC) of The University of Sydney [HREC Approval No. 2025/HE000286].